A Healthy Smile Means a Healthy You

Taking care of your teeth does more than result in a great smile.

Of course, it can keep away bad breath, gum disease and tooth decay. But did you know that the way you take care of your teeth can affect the health of your whole body? When your mouth isn't healthy, it can increase the risk for stroke and heart disease.

TWICE A DAY, EVERY DAY.

The good news — brushing your teeth is one of the best and easiest ways to keep your mouth healthy. Make sure you brush your teeth twice a day, and that you get all the sides of your teeth and tongue. This will get rid of germs and leftover food. Use a toothbrush with soft bristles. Brush for two minutes each time, using gentle, circular strokes.

To keep your toothbrush clean, don't lay it on a sink counter or in a closed space where germs can grow. Keep it in a toothbrush holder or small jar or vase. Get a new toothbrush every three to four months and right away after you have been sick.

Flossing is an important step too. It helps clean between your teeth, where cavities usually start. Slide the floss between your teeth and gently move it between each tooth all the way to the gum line .

SCHEDULE REGULAR VISITS TO THE DENTIST.

Regular visits to the dentist include an exam and cleaning to get rid of plaque that can build up in any spaces you may miss brushing and flossing. Your dentist will check for tooth decay, gum disease and signs of other health issues like vitamin deficiencies and diabetes. And they'll make sure any dental work is still holding up and doing its job.

HAVE A TOOTH-HEALTHY DIET.

Certain foods and drinks are great for your teeth — others are not so great. Drinking water is great. It washes away food and germs during the day. Foods that have lots of calcium and protein are also good choices — like carrots, almonds and cheese. On the other hand, chewy, sticky, sugary foods and sweet drinks can damage the enamel surface of your teeth. They can cause decay, so avoid them when you can, and when you can't, rinse your mouth with water or brush your teeth. If you chew gum, choose sugar free.

Add More Laughter into Your Life This Holiday Season

Did you know that laughter is considered the best medicine because it energizes your heart and lungs?

It also increases the release of endorphins in your brain, which relieve pain and stress in the body. Laughing also releases neuropeptides, which benefits the immune system. It's important to keep yourself and your loved ones laughing. Here are a few ways you can ensure you and your family laugh a little more each day.

READ FUNNY BOOKS

Is reading something you enjoy? If so, spend the afternoon at your local bookstore or online to buy a fun book. Everyone's sense of humor may be different, but reading a fun novel together will not only tickle the funny bone, but can also be a great bonding activity for you and your loved ones.

FIND EXCUSES

Some days are more entertaining than others. When you encounter a dull and uneventful day, find excuses to laugh with the people you love. Do or say something amusing on purpose. Most people love a good laugh.

BE OBSERVANT

Instead of focusing on your smartphone and things that happen online, take the time to observe the world around you. When you focus on the real world, you are sure to see amusing things.

STEER CLEAR OF SOCIAL MEDIA

Social media is full of negative news stories that can get you and your family down. For that reason, try to limit the time you spend on social media. Instead of checking your social media feed as soon as you wake up, talk to your family members. Share amusing anecdotes with your loved ones and ask them what funny things have happened in their lives lately.

Bite Back at Mosquitoes!

Although the mosquito season officially runs from June to October, Florida's warm/wet weather makes the state the perfect habitat all year-round for these pests. Mosquito bites spread more than just itchiness – they can also spread illnesses like Zika Virus, Dengue Fever, Yellow Fever, and West Nile Virus to people as well as heartworms to dogs. Here are some ways you can prevent yourself and your child from getting bit:

Use Repellent for Protection

- Apply insect repellent to exposed skin or clothing, but not under clothing.
- Treat clothing and gear with products containing 0.5% permethrin. Do not apply permethrin directly to skin.
- Always read label directions carefully for the approved usage before you apply a repellent.
- Some repellents are not suitable for children. Ensure repellent is safe for children and age appropriate.

Stop Mosquitoes from Breeding

Mosquitoes breed by laying eggs in and near standing water. As little as one teaspoon or bottle cap of water standing for more than a week is enough for mosquitos to breed. At least once a week, empty or cover anything that could hold water, such as:

- Buckets
- Toys
- Child Pools
- Pool Covers
- Birdbaths
- Trash Containers
- Recycling Bins
- Boat or Car Covers
- Roof Gutters
- Coolers
- Pet Dishes
- Tires

Keep Them Outside

Mosquitoes can live outdoors and indoors! Use these tricks to keep them out of your home:

- Use air-conditioning.
- Keep screens on all your windows and repair any holes in your screens.
- Keep doors and windows closed.

Snowman Soup, Anyone?

We don't get many winter days in Florida. But, when a cold snap does come, this fun recipe is sure to warm things up.

INGREDIENTS

- Milk — dairy or whatever kind you like
- Sugar
- Chocolate chips
- Large marshmallows — not the mini kind
- Gel icing in a tube — black and orange if you have them
- Whipped cream

DIRECTIONS

- 1 Make hot chocolate. Pour the milk into a mug without filling it all the way to the top. Add a small spoonful of sugar and a small handful of chocolate chips to the milk. Stir to dissolve the sugar. Microwave the milk for 1 minute. Stir. Then microwave for 1 more minute. Stir until the chocolate chips have melted.
- 2 Draw a snowman face on the marshmallows. Use the gel icing to draw a snowman face on each of your marshmallows. Simple black dots can form the “coal” eyes and mouth, and you can use orange icing to make a carrot nose.
- 3 Top the hot chocolate with whipped cream, drop in two or three snowman marshmallows; and enjoy.

Wishing you a winter season
that's merry and bright.

Gifts from the Heart

You don't have to spend a lot of money to show someone you care.

They're often much nicer than something you just grab at the mall. Here are some ideas that you can do or even encourage your child to do for other loved ones this holiday season:

- Share memories. If you and a loved one have done lots of fun things together, write down some of your best memories or make a little box filled with mementos of those times, like ticket stubs and pictures. You could even attach a note to each item that says how you got it or why you saved it.

- Make a game. Create a “winter bingo” game. On four cards or more, draw a block of 25 squares. In each square, write or draw something that makes winter special. Make sure each card has the pictures or words in a different order. You could also create a family “guess who” game, making cards with fun facts or sayings from each family member.
- Make hand warmers or heating pads. Get two pieces of fabric. Put them on top of each other and cut them together into a simple shape, like a circle or square. You can make them small, for handwarmers, or large, for a heating pad to help with back pain. Choose what side will be the outside of each fabric. Then flip each fabric so the outside is now on the inside. Sew the pieces together about a quarter inch from the outside edge. Leave a two-inch opening. Flip the fabric right side out again. Using a funnel, fill the pouch with dry, uncooked rice, and sew the opening shut. To heat them, microwave for about one minute.
- Make a happiness jar. Pick a jar. It can be a pretty mason jar or any used jar — just wash off the label. Cut small strips of paper and write encouraging notes on each piece. It could be things you like about that person, good thoughts or any ideas you think the person would like. Put the notes in the jar then decorate the jar with ribbon.
- Give your time. Are you good at organizing? Cleaning? Cooking? Or would your loved one just want you to come over and read to them or go for a walk? Make a coupon and give them the gift of something you're really good at.
